ASCII Desktop Product Key is a super easy way to turn any PC into a world of cute, brightly colored ASCII art. The program can change desktop wallpaper, lock the desktop and any open windows, send text messages, play sound effects, start shutdown timers, and just about everything else that a normal computer can do. It even has a cute clock that never needs to be reset! Set up is a snap. Simply select a picture to be the desktop wallpaper, or choose an image file to use as your desktop image. Once that's done, you're ready to go. We want you to ask yourselves a question before downloading, reading the license agreement and getting started. Do you enjoy the skin? If not, do you like them all? If the answer to either of these questions is no, you should not download, read and install the software. Do you, as a general rule, want to be the sort of person who installs and uses software in order to do something other than what it was originally intended? If you answered yes to this question, then you can and should go for it. If you answered no to both questions, you're probably fine. If you answered yes to both, you might be a little too curious. Right, right. Downloading:

Unzip, run the install.exe file. The installation process will be triggered and a license agreement will be displayed. Read the agreement carefully, and when finished, click the button to continue. If you have problems, please get in touch with the developer. Credits: The wallpaper from the box art is created by Talha Khan. I personally downloaded the wallpaper from this video: Subtitles and Audio can be found here: License: MIT Size: 17.53 MB The first thing you see when you start up the player is a small man in a gorilla costume. What do you do? Well, there's a large button just above this man's head that says "Click to Play". That's how you play the game. Click it. You play by moving the mouse around the game board. The goal is to move the gorilla to the end of the board, without going over
