Tip The Background layer is available by default when you open Photoshop. Layers are superimposed over each other, so the ground is always underneath all other layers. Click the Background layer in the Layer List and then click the New Layer button to create a new layer called Lights. Once created, you can see it and the Background layer by the item in the Layer List near the bottom of the Layers panel. You will now notice that the Background layer is not visible.

What's New In Photoshop 2022 (Version 23.2)?

A Russian-made missile entered Israeli airspace for the first time in more than a decade on Tuesday, Israel's army said, marking a new milestone in the country's domestic fiercer-than-ever rivalry with its arch-enemy. The Israeli military, which started broadcasting on social media what it said was video of the incident, said the Russian-made, solid-fuel Topol-M ground-to-air missile was launched from the Golan Heights. It was fired at "an unidentified aircraft". The Israeli military said there was no danger to civilians and that the missile failed to reach its intended target. More: The Tass news agency, citing a defence ministry official, quoted the defence minister, Naftali Bennett, as saying the missile was fired from Syria. The Israeli military did not confirm this, saying only that the launch was from the Golan Heights, where the country has a peace treaty with Syria. Israel's military also shared clips from a video taken from a surveillance drone, allegedly showing the missile launch. The Israeli military did not immediately respond to a request for additional comments, but the incident drew swift condemnation from Israel's Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who said it showed a "grave breach of Israeli sovereignty". Netanyahu, who has had a frosty relationship with Russian President Vladimir Putin since the latter annexed Ukraine's Crimean Peninsula in 2014, called the incident a "dangerous step" on "a new and disturbing chapter in the relations between Israel and Syria". But Israeli political analyst Meir Javedanfar called the launch "a simple case of a technical malfunction". The missile, which had a range of up to 120 kilometres, was launched after Israel decided to improve its air defences following the downing in September of a Russian airliner that had been carrying tourists to the Black Sea resort of Sochi, Israeli media reported. In recent years, Israel has accused Russia of aiding Syrian President Bashar al-Assad's government, which has been fighting an army rebel alliance in a civil war that has killed hundreds of thousands of people. It is the most serious armed confrontation between the two neighbours since the Middle East's devastating war in the 1970s.
